A Report on Faculty Development Program

“Advanced Optimization Techniques”

(18th - 20th February 2019)

A three days Faculty Development Program was organized by Faculty of Engineering & Technology on 18th to 20th February 2019 on Advanced Optimization Techniques.

Purpose of the workshop

Mathematics plays a key role in the development of modern sciences, engineering, management and many other important areas of activities. To promote research activities and quality research, this FDP was organized. Since there is always a need of quantitative analysis and optimization of parameters is of utmost importance. Optimization is usually the most important feature of all Engineering and Science problems. The idea is to find solutions for practical problems in such a manner that best output/outcome are obtained while spending minimum resources. Optimization becomes very complex when the number of decision variables and/or optimization objectives is large. Real-world problems usually have multiple objectives and complex linear/non-linear constraints, which further add to the complexity of optimization tasks. This FDP is organized to understand the optimization techniques required for qualitative and quantitative research.

Participants of the workshop

55 participants have attended the workshop out of 112 registrations for this seminar and get benefitted in terms of current trends and research in the said field.

Keynote Speaker: Dr. Surendra Yadav, Career Point University, Kota

REPORT ON ONE DAY WORKSHOP
ON RESEARCH PROPOSAL WRITING

(Date : 15.01.2019)

A research proposal is a detailed description of a proposed study, designed to investigate a given problem. It describes the project, explains its importance and outlines the processes that will be undertaken in order to complete it. A grant proposal is a document that is prepared for requesting or apply for funding for your research.

- Research proposals are a quintessential guide for the execution of any research project
- Submission of well-writing research proposals are required for a Master's dissertation as well as when applying for an MPhil/PhD program.
- The APA ethics code mandates that researchers have an accurate and detailed research proposal before undertaking any research activity.
- Research proposals help to concretize ideas anticipate any pitfalls that may arise in the project.
- An effective grant proposal increases the likelihood of getting funding for your research projects.

Keeping above points in mind, Faculty of Management, Jagan Nath University organized a One Day Workshop for University teachers, research scholars, & students with the prime objective of developing research proposal writing skills. The workshop was successfully organized on 15.01.2019 in the Auditorium of Sitapura Campus. The workshop have covered the diverse elements of Research and Grant Proposal writing in every kind of research. The workshop had used practical problems and examples from social sciences and daily life to explain the content. Participants' ideas were built upon and the workshop helped to contextualized to suit their needs and/or interest. The workshop was interactive and participative. Participants were given take-home exercises to enable them to apply the workshop content to actual research problems.

The Resource Persons for the Workshop was: Dr. Anil Sharma, Associate Professor, Jagannath University, Jaipur

Highlights of the presentations made are as given below:

- A good proposal is a brief one which is well written with clear scientific and technical content. The scientific content must include the title of proposal; clear and testable hypothesis; aims and objectives; experiments to be done; drawbacks; preliminary data and relevant citations
- Budget should be reasonable and it should include the cost for equipments, provisions for staff, consumables, travel/conference together with other contingencies
